Strasburg Schools delay start of classes

STRASBURG — "Unavoidable. Frustrated. Prudent."

Those were among the sentiments voiced by new Strasburg Schools Superintendent Dan Hoff last Friday as he announced that the start of 2022-23 classes in all three buildings has been pushed back two weeks until the end of this month. The original calendar showed the first day of school on Aug. 17, but construction delays at the elementary and high schools forced the delay until at least Aug. 31. "Despite our best efforts and intentions, the reality of the situation is that the buildings are not ready for in-person learning," Hoff said in his Aug. 5 letter to students and families. About 11 p.m. July 22, one of the known metro racing groups assembled at Colorado Mills in Lakewood and proceeded to traverse its way northeast. Upon making a brief stop at the Green Valley Ranch King Soopers parking lot, the group of approximately 400 car enthusiasts continued north and east, eventually reaching the area of 56th Avenue and Hudson Road northwest of Watkins.

But members of an 18-agency task force in charge of deterring illegal speed racing reportedly were in the "right places at the right times," and mitigated the amount of racing "meets" that night.

Áccording to the Colorado State Patrol, that night's interdiction not only mitigated the amount of dangerous racing activity but did result in numerous contacts with wrong-doers.

"This is probably on the lower because not all the agencies have yet reported back but, so far, 150 contacts were reported with 93 citations, a couple of DUI arrests and nine people eluded," a State Patrol spokesman said.

Stepped-up efforts to mitigate speed racing gatherings will continue over the summer and fall. Commuters that come across suspicious roadway activity are urged to contact 911.

STRASBURG HOMETOWN DAYS

Hometown Days Parade Marshals Diana and Kurt Elliott

Longtime area educators to lead parade thru 'Burg

STRASBURG — The annual Strasburg Hometown Days parade Saturday morning will be led by a pair of former I-70 Corridor educators.

The husband-and-wife duo of Kurt and Diana Elliott are Grand Marshals for this year's "Summer on the Rails" parade.

Diana is a 55-year resident of Strasburg, including graduating as part of the Indians' 16-student Class of 1971. She is a retired special education teacher from along the I-70 Corridor, including stints at Limon, Byers and Strasburg. Diana moved with her family to Strasburg from the Holyoke/Haxtun area when she was entering the eighth grade.

Kurt retired from the Strasburg Schools' music department after the 2021-22 school year. He taught music in the Corridor for almost $3^{1/2}$ decades — six years in Deer Trail and the past 28 in Strasburg. He moved to Strasburg in 1989. For more information on Kurt's retirement, see the Aug. 2 issue of The I-70 Scout.

Kurt also directs the local High Plains Music Ensemble, which will play during the midday hamburger fry at the Strasburg School campus.

The parade route will traverse eastbound along Colfax Avenue between Wagner and Adams streets. All entries will head north on Adams Street, ending at the east parking lot of the Strasburg Schools campus.

Sunday morning events moved to new venue

STRASBURG — The most significant changes to this year's Hometown Days weekend occur on Sunday morning.

The annual community church service is scheduled for 10 a.m., Aug. 13, at the Hemphill Middle School gymnasium, 2100 Wagner St., instead of outdoors at the Comanche Crossing Museum.

In addition to planning ahead in the case of extreme heat, committee organizers said it will minimize travel to other Sunday morning activities.

This year's breakfast fundraiser for the Strasburg High School chapter of Future Business Leaders of America will start at 7:30 a.m. at the middle school. The Run to the Rails 5K Fun Run will also end across the street from the middle school.

Special evening of history set for Strasburg museum

STRASBURG — The Comanche Crossing Museum will host A Night at the Museum starting with tours and refreshments at 5:30 p.m. and a presentation at 6 p.m., Thursday, Aug. 11, at the Comanche Crossing Museum.

Curator Cliff Smith will discuss the history of the Kansas Pacific Railroad's construction in 1870 along with other aspects of Strasburg history.

ArapCo sheriff opens new police school

CENTENNIAL – For the past few decades, the sheriff's office has relied on different law enforcement agencies to train its recruits.

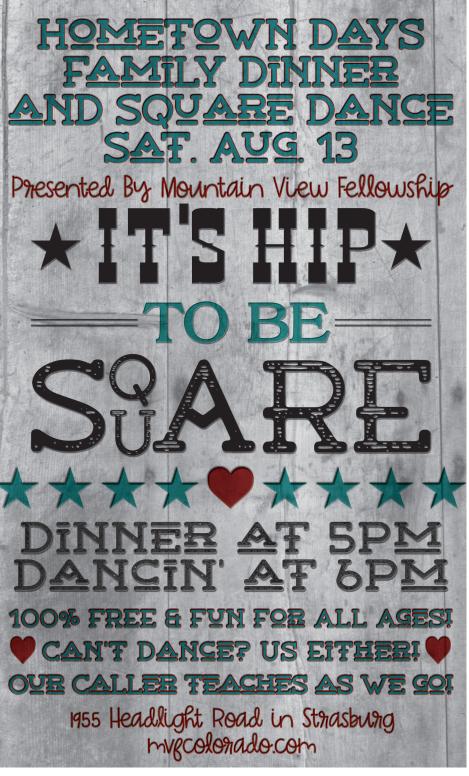

But that all changed in June when Arapahoe County Sheriff Tyler Brown won final approval from Colorado's Peace Officers Standards & Training (POST), to operate an academy. The sheriff's office can now recruit, hire and train its own deputies with higher standards and expectations that match some of the best agencies in the nation.

Brown says the idea for a new academy was part of a strategy to raise the level of training and prepare recruits for a successful career.

"One of the nice things about having our own academy is we can be selective in our process and ensure with firearms training at the Highlands Ranch Law Enforcement Training Facility.

Once the recruits graduate in December 2022, they will start work as deputies in the county jail for a minimum of one year, at which point they can transfer into patrol with field training on the road.

Now: 5 \mathbf{b}

our deputies are trained in our culture of accreditation and excellence in community service," he said.

Two years ago, Brown raised the idea of a new police academy with Sgt. Quinn Cunningham, who he tapped to lead the effort. Cunningham spent the next 18 months meticulously planning the new ACSO Training Academy.

"This is hardest thing I've ever done professionally and the biggest project we've ever taken on as an agency," Cunningham said. "We built our own lesson plans from the ground up. Our deputies will do more scenario-based training and more problem-solving than most agencies in this country."

The first class of 28 recruits began classes July 11. They are spending the subsequent 23 weeks undergoing rigorous training at the Sheriff's Office Headquarters in Centennial

Hwy 71 work to slow commute from Limon to Brush

The Colorado Department of Transportation began passing lane construction work Aug. 8 along Colorado Highway 71 between Limon and Brush.

The project consists of new passing lanes in three sections of the highway between mile markers 111 and 152, including two between Last Chance and Woodrow. Work will include asphalt paving, erosion control, seeding, installation of new signage, and new striping. IHC Scott, of Englewood, is the contractor for this project.

Work hours will range from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Vehicles may be reduced to single-lane, alternating traffic intermittently in either direction, which could result in 15-minute delays. The speed limit will be reduced to 40 mph through the work zone and 12-foot width restrictions in place.

A formal appeal may be made either orally or in writing to Tom Turrell, Superintendent, Byers Schools; Robin Purdy, Superintendent, Bennett Schools; Budd Buchmann, Superintendent, Deer Trail Schools; or Dan Hoff, Superintendent, Strasburg Schools for a hearing to appeal the decision. Bennett, Byers, Deer Trail or Strasburg school districts have a copy of the complete free and reduced-price school meal policy, which may be reviewed by any interested party. The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedure.

Applications may be submitted at any time during the school year. The household may complete an application if any household member(s) have a decrease in income, become unemployed, have an increase in family size, become eligible for SNAP, TANF or FDPIR benefits or become categorically eligible.

Foster children who are under the legal responsibility of a foster care agency or court are eligible for free school meals. Any foster child in the household is eligible for free school meals regardless of income. If a household has only foster children in the home and wishes to apply for free school meals, the application should be completed using the instructions for households with foster children only. If a household has foster and non-foster children living with them and wishes to apply for free school meals, the application should be completed using the instructions for households with foster and non-foster children living with them and wishes to apply for free school meals, the application should be completed using the instructions for households with foster and non-foster children residing in the home. Including foster children as household members may help other children in the household qualify for meal benefits. If the foster family is not eligible to receive meal benefits, it does not prevent a foster child from receiving free school meals.

An application cannot be approved unless it contains complete eligibility information as indicated on the application and instructions.

When determined by Bennett, Byers, Deer Trail or Strasburg school districts, that members of a household are receiving assistance from SNAP, TANF or FDPIR, households will be notified of their children's eligibility for free school meals. The second human case of West Nile virus in Adams County was confirmed Aug. 2, but like the first case, the location of the infected person is unknown.

In addition, the first case of an Adams County horse and an Arapahoe County bird contracting the disease were confirmed July 26 and July 27, respectively. An area veterinarian, however, has diagnosed West Nile in three horses, but the animals were not tested.

Officials with the Colorado Department of Public Health & Environment said the exact location of any confirmed infections would not be released to protect patients' and animal owners' confidentiality and to minimize false feelings of protection. They did say the most recent Adams County infection was in a 54-year-old female.

"It's also a matter of not putting undue scares into people in the area where the infection happened and also preventing people in other areas from getting complacent on the issue," said Mark Salley, CDPHE public information officer.

The bison escaped their West Bijou pasture on the south side of Arapahoe County Road 2, wandered across May Farms, and busted through a Colorado Department of Transportation fence before getting on I-70. Massner said the bison are not locally-owned but brought in from businessmen in the north metro Denver area for summer grazing.

Jim Alford, along with his wife Joann, were presented a Quilt of Valor during a July 30 ceremony at the Arapahoe County Fair.

The quilt presented to the Alfords was put together utilizing sewn squares made by fairgoers last year, which were combined by members of the Smoky Hill Quilters.

This year's fair again featured novice or experienced crafters using a sewing machine to make squares that will be used in next year's Quilt of Valor.

The Alfords' quilt includes a plethora of squares in the theme of "Hearts and Hands," fitting symbols for their community service.

Venus Calls for Faith

Venus' last big statement from the realm of Cancer speaks to matters of faith. Bigger projects will require you to hold a vision in your mind and believe in it. The impact of your work at times may seem negligible. Just remember that 100 rainfalls may not make the ocean appear any deeper, but there's no question that the ocean is made in drops.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22). Your success key has to do with treating the concerns of others with the same respect you do your own. You may even be able to solve your own problems through working someone else's for a while. .

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). You can ease the pressures affecting you now by changing some of the parameters of your thinking. Unrealistic expectations lead to frustration. If you got half of what you wanted, would these efforts still be worthwhile? Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23). The value of something will come to light, or it will be valued in a new way. In this matter, the physical properties of the thing will be far less important than the story around it and what it represents. Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 21). Feeling seen will boost your confidence and make you see yourself as more capable. Believing in yourself changes everything. Big goals become achievable; people seem more likable; life is more enjoyable. Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21). Slow and steady is not your go-to style. You'd much rather wave a magic wand and experience instantaneous results. With the magic of technology, you just may get your wish! Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19). Your attention and openness are gifts you reserve for those who value the privilege of knowing you well. In your own way, you'll do some testing and determine who's worthy of letting in.

problem-solving is a strength of yours, and you don't shy away from interesting puzzles, you're still apt to follow the course of action that has held you in good stead: You maintain things before they become a problem.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20). It takes nerve to act on your own behalf. Some may interpret your move as an affront to their own agenda. Don't accept this logic. Being for yourself does not mean being against others.

Aries (March 21-April 19). Your savvy prevents you from letting someone else's representation of events hype your expectations or play into your fears. You'll skirt the pessimists and shake the haters because a good mood is too precious a thing to waste..

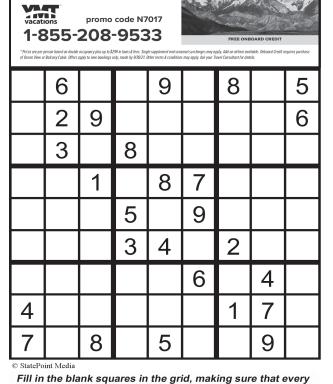

Taurus (April 20-May 20). There are certain clubs you really want to be a part of. Don't wait for a good reason to interact with others; the most cursory interest in them is reason enough. Your ability to really see people is a gift to you both. Gemini (May 21-June 21). You've seen what happens when hearts harden. You've also seen hearts expand to include you or soften to envelop you in comfort. Events seem designed to help you test the flexibility and tensile strength of your heart. Cancer (June 22-July 22). You aim to exceed expectations, so you won't set them so high that you won't be able to meet them. If you can manage to have no expectations, your experience will be fresh, full and surprising. Today's Birthday (August 9). You understand people and speak to them on levels that logic cannot reach. Your influence will be powerful this year and you'll effectively promote what you believe in and sell it on a large scale. More highlights include an ally with fantastic connections, upgraded transportation and a team that takes home the medal. Aries and Virgo adore you. 8 • The I-70 Scout Drought, irrigation expected to drain 2 Colo. reservoirs

The Colorado Sun

DENVER (AP) — It's open season with no limit on walleye, saugeye, crappie, perch, wiper and catfish at two Eastern Plains reservoirs.

Again.

As severe drought spikes demand for irrigation water on the plains, Colorado Parks and Wildlife is dropping angler limits at the South Platte River-fed Jumbo Reservoir near Julesburg and the Arkansas River-fed Queens Reservoir north of Lamar.

The agency expects both reservoirs to soon run dry and lose all fish.

That's troubling local businesses around the reservoirs that count on angler traffic that might not return for several years while Colorado Parks and Wildlife rebuilds the fisheries.

"This will not just devastate Julesburg's economy, this could devastate the county's economy," said Michelle Stang, the executive director of Sedgwick County Economic Development. The emergency public fish salvages started the last two weeks of last month first at Queens then at Jumbo, with anglers at both impoundments able to catch as many fish as they want, without limits on size or restrictions on lures or flies.

CPW will rebuild the fisheries "when adequate waters return," according to a statement announcing the salvage.

Typically, CPW suspends bag and size limits when crews need to repair or maintain reservoir infrastructure and dams. Earlier this month the agency dropped limits on fish at Groundhog Reservoir north of Dolores to accommodate dam repairs, just as it did in 2018.

But several reservoirs on the Eastern Plains and in southern Colorado have run dry due to drought and irrigation demand in the last two decades, some staying parched for years.

CPW issued a fish salvage at Jumbo in 2020, but late-season rains kept water in the reservoir, saving the fishery from a total loss.

Kiowa County's Queens Reservoir, part of the Great Plains Reservoir System fed by the Arkansas River that also includes Nee Noshe, Nee Gronda and Nee Sopah reservoirs, went dry in 2005 and was not refilled until 2015. Nee Noshe had too little water to support fish from 2010-15. The reservoirs are part of Queens State Wildlife Area.

In October 2020, CPW ordered an emergency fish salvage at Wahatoya Reservoir in Huerfano County east of La Veta, saying intensifying drought conditions in the coldwater lake threatened a "catastrophic fish kill."

But CPW has always restocked the reservoirs with fingerlings to restore the decimated fisheries.

"Hearing back from our aquatics section leaders, they were not aware of us completely abandoning a fishery," CPW spokesman Jason Clay said.

It does not cost the agency additional time or expense to rebuild a fishery since the biologists stock the reservoirs every year. But while the biologists have the ability to get fish back in the water when the reservoirs fill, it can take a few seasons for fish to grow to a catchable size. That can be a blow to local economies that count on visiting anglers.

"It could take some time for the fish we stock in there to grow to sizes some anglers covet or grow to meet certain size-limit requirements," Clay said. "Nearly all the warm-water fish we put out are stocked as fry or fingerlings, so the time it takes to rebuild fisheries can be dependent on fish growth rates."

Curtis McCuiston and his brother KC took second place in a walleye tournament on Jumbo Reservoir in May, catching five walleye over 25 inches. He ranks Jumbo in "my top three destinations" for fishing trips. In the winter, it's his favorite spot for duck hunting.

Without water in Jumbo, the Fort Collins resident won't be visiting Julesburg.

"We really help keep that town alive. If you are not a farmer, you count on visitors in your hotels and restaurants out there," he said. "I guess I'd want to ask CPW why they keep stocking it if they know it could die off again. I wonder if there's any way to net the fish in there and move them to another reservoir, like Sterling, which is less susceptible to drought and irrigation demands. It doesn't make sense to stock these reservoirs if they are just going die every other year."

The loss of duck hunting in the fall and summertime fishing "would be horrible," said Stang with Sedgwick County Economic Development.

"We don't have a lot of things to bring people here. In the summer it's the reservoir. In the winter it's the reservoir for hunting," said Stang, describing how she just finished writing her county's guide for visiting hunters this fall. "We can't lose any more of our economy."

Youthful Indians tee off to start fall season

by Steven Vetter Managing Editor

BRUSH — Despite having no seniors, the Strasburg boys golf team finished in the top half of the season-opening Brush Invitational at The Course at Petteys Park Aug. 4.

Sophomore Kameron Gilbert led the red-and-black quartet with a 15-over-par round off 87, placing him in a tie for 14th of 71-players.

Junior Eli Dwyer placed 26th with a round of 92, while classmate Cooper DeLarber was 40th with a 102.

Strasburg's three-person aggregate score of 281 put it in sixth place of 16 schools in attendance.

Sophomore Garrett Fetty was Strasburg's fourth participant, but his round of 120 didn't count towards the team score.

"It was a decent starting point to the new season," said Strasburg

When school starts in Strasburg later this month, students and staff will be welcomed by two new elementary additions — a classroom gym on the southwest corner, left photo, and a wing of new classrooms on the northeast corner, right photo. The start date and staff are in a safe environment and that staff be provided adequate time to prepare their classrooms. Our students deserve to start the school year in a positive learning environment without facing unpredictable interruptions. This delay is in the best interest of the students."

SCHOOL DELAY

Strasburg High school, pictured above, and Strasburg Elementary are both currently closed to the public as construction at both buildings continue.

In addition to improvements to the high school HVAC, mechanical and safety systems, crews continue to finish up two new additions to the elementary school — a classroom wing on the northeast corner and a classroom gym on the southwest side. As of Aug. 5, both buildings were off-limits to teachers and staff as the interior of both buildings continue to be uninhabitable. The third school building on campus remains open.

"Hemphill Middle School will be utilized by school-based staff to strategize, plan and prepare," Hoff said. "We have new leadership at all of our schools, it is imperative that we maximize this opportunity to support our students when they return. All staff will report as directed by their principal or director."

Hoff added that Strasburg Hometown events scheduled in Hemphill Middle School will go on as planned but that the inside of the high school and elementary buildings will be off-limits.

Hometown Days may be impacted. We are working with [event organizers] through potential alternatives if indoor space is limited or not available," Hoff said. "Outdoor areas should remain unaffected."

How the delayed start will impact the rest of the school year was unFROM PAGE 1 known at the end of last week, but Hoff said those specifics should be known in the near future.

"We are assessing our instructional minutes at each building. There may be a need to extend the school day and/or school year end date," Hoff said. "Communication will be forthcoming as the factual need unfolds."

Students, families and community members can provide feedback about the 2022-23 school year by filling out an online delayed start feedback form that is available at www.strasburg31j.com and clicking on the link under "Recent News."

"While this is not the way we hoped to start the school year, it is a time to provide feedback, student centered support and community resiliency," Hoff said. "The outcome will be schools that are safe, provide enhanced learning and student enjoyment of their schools. Based on this form's feedback we are compiling a document that will address frequently asked questions."

While classes won't start on time, athletics will proceed as scheduled; however, home games might be impacted, particularly volleyball.

Hoff also added that daily graband-go food items will be available for students and families to pick up.

No plans are currently in place to commence remote or virtual learning platforms.

The new administrative services center, including a fleet services hub on the north boundary of campus is also receiving finishing touches, but is not expected to impact the start of classes.

Pioneer School White Bread

by Giselle Rowe Staff Writer

purpose flour)

Every summer Comanche Crossing Museum in Strasburg hosts Pioneer School, a series of four weeklong hands-on trips to the Old West for kids.

Activities include attending class in a one-room school house, visiting the museum, learning to churn butter and making homemade bread. For the last 13 years, the many volunteers who help 'teach' have made bread with the group of children attending each week. They learn all the steps and get to participate in sifting, mixing and kneading of the final product.

The original recipe calls for unbleached ground white wheat flour, but you can use more regular all purpose flour but it will make a softer, less coarse bread.

Eat this Pioneer School White Bread hot out of the oven with butter and honey, full of old fashioned taste and the satisfaction of knowing you made it yourself.

INGREDIENTS

- 3 cups lukewarm water
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 1/2 tablespoons of yeast
- 1/3 cup oil
- 1 tablespoon of salt

6-7 cups unbleached ground white wheat flour. (Or 8 cups of all

DIRECTIONS

In a large mixing bowl, dissolve yeast in warm water and sugar. Let sit 10 minutes (yeast will bubble). Add the oil. Add the dry ingredients starting with 6 cups of flour. Mix all together. Knead the dough thoroughly until all the ingredients are incorporated, and dough is smooth, elastic, very slightly sticky and pulls away from the bowl (6 to 10 minutes). As you knead the dough, you may need to add more flour as needed and repeat the process until the dough reached the desired consistency.

Cover the bowl of dough with a dish towel or plastic wrap and let rise until doubled (an hour or more depending on how warm your kitchen is). You may speed up this process by placing the covered bowl inside the oven with the oven light on, and another bowl of warm water sitting on the lower rack.

After rising, punch the dough down, dived and form into two loaves. Place the dough in two greased bread pans. Bake at 375 degrees for 25 minutes. Remove the baked loaves from their pans immediately and place on a cooling rack. Slice and serve warm with butter and honey. Store in an airtight bag. These baked loaves or the bread dough freeze well.

More than 7,000 people representing numerous states and countries converged on Byers to be part of the Tough Mudder obstacle course series July 23-24 at May Farms. The two-day event featured a bevy of different courses — 5K, 10K, and 15K challenges both days — that were dotted with a variety of below- and above-ground obstacles. Youth age 12 and under had a Kids Mudder that they competed in as well. Members of the Byers and Strasburg fire departments also came together as a team during Sunday's 5K. Clockwise from above left photo, Cortney Garner of Deer Trail pulls her way up the running/rope ramp known as Everest; Byers firefighter Kaley Dillingham, front, and Sarah Lewis and Randalee Trowbridge slog their way through one of the mud pits; and Strasburg firefighter Jay Scarabosio (inset) tries to shake out some of the mud.
