Aging, end-of-life key to virtual event

Adults and older adults are invited to “Jane Barton Presents: THE Conversation,” a virtual event on aging, caregiving and the end of life from 2-3:30 p.m., Friday, Sept. 15.

While some are hesitant to have the end-of-life conversation, resources are available to help.

Barton, a speaker, educator and palliative care educator, is a firm believer that knowledge is power, particularly with the challenges posed by aging, care-giving, and the end of life.

She is passionate about emotional topics in captivating ways.

Participants will get pointers to help them kick-start the conversation.

The event will be hosted on Zoom.

To make a reservation or for additional information, visit call (303)542-7279 or visit arapahoelibraries.org.

Kids drawing ace sets 2 workshops

Kids and tweens ages 5-12 can attend two virtual drawing workshops in September with artist Dan Laib (also known as “Dan Gogh”).

At “The Magic of Shapes,” Laib will demonstrate how basic shapes are the foundation of drawing, even when tackling complex objects. It will run from 4-5 p.m., Wednesday, Sept. 13.

The second, Character Creation, goes from 4-5 p.m., Tuesday, Sept. 26. In it, Laib will share basics about drawing a human body and clothing and highlight the importance of imagination.

“Dan Laib mixes art with comedy to make drawing easy and fun for all ages. He is a frequent presenter with Arapahoe Libraries, as he engages the kids and helps them to learn a new skill or sharpen ones they already have,” said Kara Seal, senior events specialist with Arapahoe Libraries.

Both workshops will be hosted on Zoom. To reserve a spot or for more information, visit arapahoelibraries.org or call (303)542-7279.

NEW SENATOR FROM P1

Senate," Moreno said in a statement.

Michaelson Jenet's work at the Capitol included youth diversion service, school meals and anti-suicide initiatives. She chaired the House Public & Behavioral Health Care & Human Services Committee and served on the House Education and Legislative Audit committees during her seven years as representative. Her move to the Senate creates a House seat opening in a district in northwest Aurora and southern Commerce City.

Morena was term-limited and had one year left. Michaelson Jenet has already filed to run next year for the Senate District 21 seat.
